All BlancOne® treatments are for professional use only.

1. Context

This information is aimed at providing a general idea of professional teeth whitening by means of the system used. Your cooperation and acknowledgement of this material is necessary for us to reach the best results. Safety with regards to teeth whitening processes is very high and the system used is just as safe. As in all professional and health treatments there are limited risks (which will be discussed further on) and the success of the treatment varies and cannot be guaranteed.

2. Expectations regarding the whitening treatment final result

In most cases, a significant whitening of the teeth shall be achieved, but a method capable of estimating the exact final result does not exist. Patients with yellow or yellow brown teeth (tones A and B) tend to reach a whitening result faster than patients with grey or grey brown teeth (tones C and D). Teeth discoloured by antibiotics, decalcifications (white stains), therapies connected to teeth devitalisation, or traumas don't always respond in a predictable or fast way and, sometimes, require further treatment. On the other hand, if your teeth already have a white tone, for example, A1-B1 or are out of Vita Colour Scale, you could or couldn't reach a high level of whiteness. During the assessment you will be shown some patients' pictures, before or after the whitening treatment, in order to have a general idea of the kind of results achievable. The dentist or hygienist might also be able to estimate the final result by an assessment of the condition of your teeth. If in doubt, we are kindly asking you to discuss about it with the professional before signing this form and proceed with the whitening treatment.

3. Follow-up

You might notice a slight change in your teeth shade within the first 24-48 hours after the treatment. This is due to the restoration of the saliva coating. Furthermore, you might notice a slight regression in the whitening due to the daily intake of staining food and drinks such as tobacco, coffee, red wine and other food and drinks containing colouring agents. Such consequences can be managed by means of a home follow-up programme.

4. Alternative treatments

Even though we believe that in-office BlancOne treatments are the fastest and most effective way to whiten your teeth (both in terms of results and costs) we indicate further opportunities. Amongst these you can find:

- Crowns or resin, ceramic, composite veneers
- Gel/individual masks system for home whitening treatment (BlancOne HOME)
- Other in-office procedures (using different light sources or chemical agents)

For further questions with regards to the alternative treatments, we are kindly asking you to consult the professional or our staff.

5. Your responsibilities during the treatment

- Follow all indications – We are kindly asking you to carefully read all written instructions and to carefully listen to indications supplied. Please do not hesitate in submitting any question you might deem necessary.
- Communication – In case of doubt regarding information received during the assessment, evaluation or contained in the literature available, or information received before or after the procedure, we will be glad to answer your questions on the matter.

6. Consent to data processing and publishing of video-photographic material

By signing this form you are giving your content to the processing of personal and sensitive data by the BlancOne Centre in order for the latter to perform the whitening treatment and using, reproducing or publishing, even on platforms managed by third parties, computer images or pictures of your teeth or oral cavity as scientific publications. In case of voluntary testimonials on video about the efficiency and procedures of the whitening treatment, you are giving your consent to the publishing of the video by the BlancOne Centre and/or third parties even on platforms managed by third parties.

You are also waiving your right of taking legal action with regards to the use of images and videos which you might consider defamatory or a violation of your rights to privacy or other rights. This declaration is given in complete freedom and willingness.
